

The Summer School Curriculum for teenager (ages 13-17)

Development of the confident and autonomous young learner

A bespoke 23 hours or 27 hour of tuition a week programme for motivated individuals which will develop their language knowledge, confidence and fluency through the study of areas such as Critical thinking, Business, drama and Creative Writing. The exploration and growth in one's interpersonal skills, inter-cultural awareness and ability to self study.

Structure

The timetable will offer a balanced day between classroom tuition and extra-curricular activities which also play a big in a student's learning journey. The programme is tailored to accommodate different abilities, goals and interests. Residential students can expect a full day programme with activities taking place after dinner. Students staying in a host family will experience typical British family life. The experience of travelling to school and the interaction between the student and host family further develops their social and linguistic fluency whilst also being exposed to an English used in everyday situations.

Suitability

Students of all levels are able to attend. From beginner (A1) to advanced (C1), the content will be adapted to all the different levels. All classes are organised according to levels. This helps to ensure that every one is being challenged and working to their ability and therefore making the maximum progression.

English Language Lessons

These lessons cover the four core English topics: Speaking, Listening, Reading and Writing. It helps to further practise and manage grammar structure and vocabulary.

Life Skills and Learning Strategies

With the theme of the class following on from the last lesson, students develop deeper study skills, acquire good command over time management and to be more self-confident. They will acquire tools vital to their future education and careers.

Fluency Workshop

A short, half hour lesson with the objective of making the young learner more comfortable in his or her use of the language. Their confidence and fluency will be further developed by having the students interact with peers of different levels.

Project lessons

The projects help students become accustomed to self learning, team work and task completion. Videos, newspapers, presentation or performance are some of the ways that students are asked to communicate their completed project to the rest of the group. This part of the day also helps delve into new subjects such as journalism, drama and debate.

Measuring Progress

Each individual keeps a personal “Learner Portfolio”. The portfolio will help teacher and student measure progress and will play a role during individual coaching sessions. Students will also use their personal portfolio for self assessment, for reflection on their work and to set personal targets.

The Extended Summer School Curriculum for teenagers (ages 13-17)

Students have the option to the extended version of the summer programme. This extension takes the weekly tuition time from 23 hours to 27. In the afternoon, instead of doing the social activities, students on The Extended Summer School Curriculum will study academic subjects. These may include topics such a Geography, Cultural Awareness, Natural Science, Politics and British history. Through these subject lessons in English the young learner can get a deeper understanding and confidence in the use of academic English.

Subject lessons

The afternoon sessions will focus on academic subjects. This will be very much led by the teachers who will be encouraged to teach their passion and area of expertise. This subject will be continued throughout the week with Friday being when they present an outcome such as a presentation or a piece of work. Subjects may include Natural Science, Politics, British history and Geography but again this will depend on the individual teacher's passion and expertise. Through this the students will themselves feel engaged and passionate about what they are learning further developing this love for learning and languages.
